OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—Commenting tonight on the statement made by D. B. Hanna, president of the Canadian National Railways that the lines would show a surplus for August, Hon. J. A. Stewart, minister of rail, ways and canals said:

"The financial position of the Canadian National Railways, as announced by Mr. Hanna, bears out the view held by the government that a decided improvement in revenue would be shown during the last four months of the year. It means that a deficit for August, 1920, amounting to four million dollars, is transformed into a surplus of $47,231 for August 1921. The gross earnings for August 1921 were $16,538,461, as compared with $16,045,318 for August, 1920, an increase of $493,143. The working expenses for August last were $16,189,229, as compared with $14,667,237 for August, 1920, indicating a reduction of about four million dollars in operating expenses.—Morning Albertaian.

It is the systematic regularity with which you make small deposits, rather than the occasional banking of a considerable amount, that steadily builds up a substantial financial banking.

Valuable Land Map

Owing to the rapidly approaching depletion of available Crown lands situated within a reasonable distance of a railway, attention is now being directed to the large extent of uncultivated and uncultivated land held by non-resident owners. As shown by statistics recently compiled in the Department of the Interior, a large part of these lands is available for purchase at reasonable prices.

The 1921 edition of the Southern Alberta Land Map, which is issued by the Department of the Interior, gives in color scheme the location of the cultivated lands that are offered for sale and also the remaining Crown lands available for home-steading, whereby the settler can see at a glance all existing opportunities for settlement. The map has also many other features of interest, such as Indian and Forest Reserves, Timber Belts, Dominion Parks, Land Districts and Agencies, Railways, lines, and all topographical features revised to date.

The Department will supply upon application lists of uncultivated and uncultivated lands covering any particular district, containing the names and addresses of the owners, prices asked for the lands, nature of the soil, and acreage suitable for cultivation. Negotiations may then be carried on with the owner.

A copy of this map may be procured free of charge upon application to the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

TAX SALE

Sale of lands in the Municipal District of Mountain View No. 319, for arrears of taxes.

Notice is hereby given that certain lands in the Municipal District of Mountain View No. 319 will be offered for sale for the arrears of taxes and costs. The sale will take place at the Municipal office in the town of Didsbury on Tuesday, November 15th, 1921, at 2 o'clock p.m. A full list of the said lands may be seen in the Didsbury Pioneer issue of September 28th, 1920, the Olds Gazette issue of October 7th, or printed lists of same may be had on application to the undersigned.

Unless the arrears of taxes be sooner paid, I shall proceed to sell the said lands at the place and time above mentioned.

Dated at Didsbury the 26th day of September, 1921.

Secretary-Treasurer.

The Importance Of Encouraging Western Settlers

The many advantages that would accrue to Canada from the settlement of the vast unoccupied areas of fertile agricultural lands in the West are fairly well recognized by all people of sound thinking these vacant lands languish and proceed almost at a snail's pace.

There is hardly a Canadian problem today, the solution of which, which is of largely, is not to be found in a large increase in the population of the country.

Is it the time national debt created by the war and the consequent heavy burden of taxation? The solution is not so much in decreased expenditures or new and additional means of revenue, but in a larger number of people to produce new wealth and to carry a share of the national debt, thereby reducing the burden all round.

Is it the problem of making the National Railway profitable? This solution is not to be found in higher rates for passengers and freight, which would operate to further decrease traffic, nor solely in economies in management and operation, to which there is a limit. If efficient service is not to be decreased, but steadily increased, production and increased production creating greater traffic to keep the railways profitably busy.

Is it a steady output for our factories and uninterrupted employment for Canada's artisans? The solution is more people in Canada contributing the output of our factories.

Other countries, already blessed with fairly large populations, can well afford to spend upon the national increase of their people. But not so a young country like Canada, an empire in itself covering half a continent and possessing untold wealth in untouched natural resources. Canada now requires, and for many years to come will require, just what the United States required throughout the Nineteenth Century, and that is a large and steady stream of immigrants. The United States, with its more than one hundred million people, can now afford to check the stream, but Canada needs to encourage it.

In the ten or fifteen years before the war, immigration poured into Canada at a rate never experienced prior to that time. The more handful of people in the West doubled, tripled, quadrupled; unorganized territories became flourishing provinces, homesteads grew into towns, towns were transformed into thriving cities. Why? Because the incoming settlers brought money and goods with them, settled on vacant lands and began to produce. As they produced new wealth from the soil, the demand for the factory products of the East grew by leaps and bounds. Factories which had remained at a standstill in volume of production year after year, or grew so slowly that it was almost imperceptible, suddenly found it necessary to build a new storey, an addition, or a new building altogether in order to keep the demand. Labor was at a premium and unemployment practically unknown. The railways were congested with more traffic than they could handle. More railways had to be built, and thus more employment was created. The railways were busy and so was the lumber industry. It was all directly traceable to the immigration and the enormous resultant increase in agricultural production.

With so recent an object lesson before the country it is amazing to find a very large number of people opposing immigration to Canada now when, in order to carry the burdens imposed on the Dominion by reason of the war, the need for more people and larger increased production is so evident. Restrictions have been placed on immigration to Canada which were undreamed of a few years ago, and are of such a character that, as one speaker at a recent public meeting said, had they been in force at the time our parents and grandparents immigrated to this country, probably one-half of the people now here would not be here. Stringent as present restrictions are, they are persistent demands for a country which has made even more stringent, while some advance a drastic prohibition of immigration.

Possibly the Immigration laws of both Canada and the United States were too lax in the past in one respect in that the laws were not kept up against the admission of the diseased, the mentally and morally defective, and the criminal class. All such should be rightly excluded. But lack of money should not be made a deterrent to anybody who is physically fit, mentally sound, and mentally efficient, capable and willing to work.

In another respect, too, Canada was at fault in the past in its treatment of new comers. It is not sufficient to induce people to come to assist in the development of the country and on their arrival to leave them to shift for themselves, which is often led to failure and shipwreck of their lives through ignorance of the conditions and customs of the land of their adoption. A recent little "Manual of Citizenship" issued by the Department of Immigration and Colonization for the guidance of new arrivals is, therefore, an encouraging innovation. In fact, the change in name from Department of Immigration to "Immigration and Colonization" is in itself significant as an indication of a much better policy. It is important, however, that the work of immigration should not be stopped or checked by too tight laws and regulations. On the contrary increased efforts should be put forth to secure new settlers of the right type.

As evidence of British postal delay but an equal testimonial to its persistence was the delivery at Prince Albert to J. More Acres Sowed To Rye

Estimated That Crop of 1922 Will be Large.

It is estimated that Southern Alberta and Southern Saskatchewan are this year sowing about 550,000 acres to fall-planted rye, as compared with 250,000 acres last year, an increase of about 200,000 acres, or about 185 per cent. It is further calculated that, given an average yield per acre, the rye crop of 1922 will Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan will give the farmers of these districts three or four million dollars more than they will receive this year.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ARE THE REMEDY FOR KIDNEY ILLS.

Principal of Saskatchewan Schools Tells Of His Own Experience With To Do When the Kidneys are Disturbed

Webb, Sask. (Special).—That there is one sovereign remedy for kidney disease and that remedy is Dodd's Kidney Pills is the outspoken opinion of Mr. George Hatchings, Principal of the public schools here. "I suffered for two years from diseased kidneys," he declared. "My kidneys were in a bad way. I was advised about a year ago to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have helped me more than any remedy I have ever tried. I find that my health has been greatly improved. I can conscientiously recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney disease. I would not be without them." Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. They help the kidneys to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. The result is new blood and new energy over the body. Ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sixty Years In One Regiment

Captain Swift Joined Queen's Own Rifles in 1861.

Captain Charles Swift, leader of the bugle band of the Queen's Own Toronto Rifles of Canada, has the longest service of any military man in Canada—sixty years in the one regiment. The Militia Department has just marked this service by promoting him to an honorary Captaincy in the regiment. It was as a triangle player that Captain Swift joined the Queen's Own Regiment at Alderbury in 1861, and led the band on the trip to the coronation of King Edward. Leading musicians from all parts of the world have congratulated Capt. Swift on the wonderful band he leads.

A Prime Dressing for Wounds.—In some factories and workshops carbolic acid is kept for use in cauterizing wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not scar the skin or burn it.

"There was a strange man at the door," announced the new servant from Boston. "What does he want?" asked the master of the house, impatiently. "Regarding your pardon, sir," replied the servant, a shade of disapproval manifest in his voice, "he wants a bath, but what he is asking for is something to eat."

Muscular Rheumatism Subdued.—When one is a sufferer from muscular rheumatism he cannot do better than to leave the rubbers rubbed with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Let the rubbing be brisk and continue until case is secured. There is more virtue in a bottle of it than can be fully estimated.

Mail Insurance Claims.—Directors of the Municipal Mail Insurance Association have fixed the rate of premium to be paid by insurers for the current year at twenty-five cents on each of the mail needed amount. Based on all claims received this levy actually means at five per cent rate. Claims number: 51,685,451.

Proves Irrigation Is a Success

Man of Third Season Owns Farm and Equipment

Proof of success in the irrigated section in Alberta is exemplified in a farmer named Williamson. After working as a hired man he rented an engine and ploughing outfit on an acreage basis and with the proceeds of one season's ploughing purchased an irrigated farm of eighty acres and broke it. In the fall he bought a threshing machine and paid for it through the proceeds of the season's threshing operations. This is his third season's farming and he owns a farm, threshing and ploughing outfit and tractor, all fully paid for.

GOOD HEALTH AND GOOD SPIRITS

Depend Upon the Condition of the Blood—Keep it Rich, Red and Pure

When a doctor tells you that you are anemic, be simply means, in plain English, that your blood is weak and watery. But this condition is one that may easily pass into a hopeless decline if prompt steps are not taken to enrich the blood. Poor blood means watery blood. In the cause of headaches and faintness, loss of appetite, poor digestion, rheumatism, neuritis, nervous irritability and many other troubles. To poor blood is due the pimples and blotches, the muddy complexion that disfigures so many faces. To have good health, a good complexion and a cheerful manner, you must have rich, red and pure. This is easily done through the use of a blood enriching tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to help enrich the blood, which makes every nerve and every organ in the body, helping with it health, strength and new activity. That is why people who occasionally use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always feel bright, active and strong.

Mrs. E. C. Cook, Since, Ont., gives strong testimony to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the blood is in an anemic condition, she says: "I have been a sufferer for some years from a run down condition of the system, I suffered from pains in the back, twitching of the nerves and, besides, my appetite was poor. I had indigestion and would get drowsy after eating. My hands and feet were always cold, and though I was constantly doctoring, the medicine I took did not help me. I had practically given up hope of good health, until a friend from Hamilton, whom I met in London, advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It took some persuasion, but I finally consented to try them. I have reason to be grateful that I did, for after using seven boxes I felt like a new person. I have gained in weight, have a better color and my work is now a pleasure. For this condition my thanks are due Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I cannot praise them too highly."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50. From The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How It May be Overcome—All Mothers Interested.

Toronto, Ont.—"I have suffered since I was a school girl with pain in my left side, and I have been growing weaker each year until I was a nervous wreck. I was told at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines, but was only relieved for a short time. Some medicine helped, but I wanted to perform my father's job. I finally learned, through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and how thankful I am that I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and feel as if I have saved my life. I can now use my left side to help other women as I am glad to recommend the medicine."—Mrs. H. A. (Goodman), 14 Rockvale Ave., Toronto.

Those who are troubled as Mrs. Goodman was, should immediately restore to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential), Lynn, Mass. These letters will be read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

He's Not a Success at Farming

Having read a great deal about these Million Dollar Rains which Jupiter Pluvius, with the splendid assistance of Mr. Hatfield, of Med.icine Hat, had been showering on the Granary of the Empire this summer, I decided to go and pick up a few of those dollars in the fall.

Within a few minutes after I had heard that the wheat harvest was plentiful, but the harvesters were scarce or scared, there was one less needed. I had volunteered for every active service.

Of the millions of dollars which come down from the clouds while the wheat was heading out I got $120 in cash. For this I did roughly 1275.50 worth of work. I did my best, but as that was, and for it I got the afore-said $120. The farmers got the rest of the millions, except such trifles as they may have paid out to other harvesters, to the banks for overdue notes, to the machinery companies, to the political campaign fund, and their pro-rata contribution to the Hatfield Drizzle.

When I started out to assist in the annual hair-cut on the bald-headed prairie, all I took with me was a pair of overalls and the usual hired man's appetite. Experience I had none: it's the first time in my life I've been able to capitalize my colossal ignorance at four dollars a day.

But I didn't know anything when I started. I soon learned. The first thing I learnt was that I "didn't" know nothing. I had that on the authority of an experienced farmer, who further supplemented his views by advising me to "beat it" before he kicked me off the place. He added that I wasn't worth my feed, which, considering the appetite I had brought along, and the way it had grown in the open spaces, was probably quite true.

I had been pitchforked into a job with a pitchfork, but I didn't seem able to pitch in with the right amount of gusto. Most of my life has been spent in putting motive power behind a lead pencil, and that is not good training to get into the swing of swinging sheaves on a high load. Goodness knows the spirit was willing, but the sheaves were too heavy.

The first day I went out arm in arm with my brand-new pitchfork, activities were centered in an oat field, work starting early in the morning. The sheaves were of a generous size, heavy with dew, and I was quickly convinced that it is far easier to saw wild oats than to harvest tame ones. I speak from experience, both ways. "Whatever a man sows, that shall he also reap," is what the Good Book tells us. I remembered that, and after mulling it over for some time I reached the logical conclusion that as I had not sown those heavy tame oats, it was not up to me to do the reaping. Had I been given a little more time I would have resigned the job, but, as it happened, the hairy farmer came along just then and made this caustic remark on my lack of ability. The parting was mutually satisfactory. I was glad to leave the job, and he surely was glad to get rid of me.

I turned my face westward. This was not due to Horace Greeley's advice to young men, nor yet because the farmer had suggested that I should go take a jump in the ocean, and the Pacific was lots nearer than the Atlantic, but because there were more farms west than east. I thought there would likely be satisfaction in numbers; the more farms the more jobs.

I was right. For a time I averaged a farm per day. From the way the various farmers spoke to me it was quite evident that they had never had anything to do with labor unions, they did not stand the least bit in awe of their employees. On a ranch, if a man is not satisfactory, out he goes; in the factory, if a man is not satisfactory, the matter is adjusted by the other workers, very kindly slowing down to his level. In that way nobody is ever fired for incompetency.

Times have changed a great deal since the Dominion government used to let a homesteader 160 acres against his time that he could not stay three years on the notion without starving to death. Today the bet is that he can't stay there three years without going into politics. Every farmer on the prairies believes he is a potential premier.

Each time I hit the trail, I tried a different kind of a job. Pitching being too heavy, I became a teamster. I can handle a team all right, but unfortunately the horses to which I was appointed groomsmen were mules. We didn't get along very well. I think it is a wise provision of nature that all mules should be chronic bachelors or sedulous spinners, for if the perversity and stubbornness that is concentrated in the first generation of mules be transmitted and multiplied to the third and fourth generation, I really believe it would make a man use bad language. I really do.

If I did not abate as a pitcher, I was more than relieved as a muleteer. While other teamsters could drive their horses to water but could not make them drink, I could not even drive my mules to water. They would work sometimes, but never when the boss was in sight. I used a great deal of energy in vain at.

Spend a Winter at the Olds School of Agriculture

Term Opens on October 27th, 1921

The courses offered afford the best opportunity ever given farm boys and girls to obtain a practical education.

The school term occupies only the slack months on the farm. The courses are free. Boarding and rooming accommodation are arranged for by the school management, and rates will be very reasonable.

The farm in connection with the school maintains a good selection of livestock for judging purposes, and the demonstration of feeding and housing methods, and the experimental work carried on during the summer provides the best and most recent material on crops and crop production.

The school is equipped for the teaching of the elementary agricultural sciences. There has never been a greater demand for trained men in the agricultural field than there is today. The uncertain conditions and crises of all farm products at present make it essential that the successful farmer be equipped with every bit of available knowledge underlying the principles of production and marketing.

Every participant in the school is given an opportunity to see the boy and girl a chance; it will pay in satisfaction, in the improvement of farming methods, and in money.

An airplane crashed near the Manhattan airfield from a height of 200 feet and a flying officer and four mechanics were killed. A strong wind was blowing at the time and the machine burst into flames. A sergeant of the air force ran to the blazing machine in an attempt to rescue the men in the wreckage, but the flames drove him back.

The foolish man who built his house on the sand—

He gave an example in folly which anybody can understand.

It isn't so easy, however, to sense the mistake of trying to build the body on foods which lack essential nourishment.

Here, again, is a foundation of sand which gives way when the test comes.

Many a food that tastes good lacks honesty of nourishment to equal its taste. Thus it tempts the appetite into mistakes that often are costly.

Grape-Nuts is a food which helps build bodily endurance for life's stress and storm. The full nourishment of wheat and malted barley, together with the vital mineral salts so necessary to bone structure and red blood corpuscles, with phosphates for the brain, is retained in Grape-Nuts. The long baking process by which Grape-Nuts is made gives the food a natural sweetness and an unusual ease of digestibility and assimilation.

Served with cream or milk, Grape-Nuts is fully nourishing, and whether eaten as a cereal at breakfast or lunch, or added in a pudding for dinner, Grape-Nuts has a particular delight for the appetite. Sold by grocers.

And He Got It.

An English schoolmaster promised a crown to any boy who should produce a riddle that he could not answer. After many had tried, a bright young one said, "Why am I like the Prince of Wales?" The schoolmaster puzzled his wits in vain, and was finally compelled to admit that he did not know. "Why?" said the boy, "It's because I am waiting for the crown."

Not To Be Caught.

Brown was a testy fellow, and if there was one thing more than another that he hated it was to be caught. As a consequence, he was very suspicious of any deed or word the meaning of which he could not understand. Once when he visited a manager he had an interesting chat with one of the keepers, and as he was about to leave the man asked: "By the way, sir, have you seen our black-faced antelope?" "Ah," thought Brown, "he's trying to make a fool of me. 'No,' he replied stily. "May I ask whom your black-faced antelope?"

A Handsome Ermine Wrap

By Marie Belmont.

A sumptuous fur wrap is always a serviceable addition to the fashionable woman's wardrobe. This season there are many appealing creations in styles that are decidedly distinctive. This model is made of ermine. It is elaborated with a rippling cape that swings from the back of the collar. The sleeves are very wide at the cuff. Most striking effect is attained by the use of a black fur collar. This reaches almost to the waistline, decreasing in size as it reaches this point. The black fur is also introduced on the lower edge of the cape, where it accentuates the ripples.

They are a gentle laxative; mild but thorough in action, and never fail to banish constipation, colic, colds or any other of the many infant ailments of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. J. H. Charest, St. Leon, Que., writes: "My baby cried continually and nothing seemed to help her till I began using Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets soon set her right and now I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Besides the Grand Lodge Officers there were delegations from ten Lodges in this district and there were over three hundred members in attendance. The Red Deer Lodges entertained the visitors at a fine dinner after the afternoon session and at the conclusion of the work again brought them together for lunch and a sing-song. Everybody who was present had a very enjoyable time and when leaving expressed their appreciation for the splendid manner in which the Red Deer brothers entertained their visitors. He's Not a Success at Farming arguments with those miles before I quit—by request, and suddenly. In his excitement the farmer even over-paid me a dollar, which I kept as a memento for my outraged feelings. Every time a lone harvester applies for a job, the prospective employer inquires where he has been working.

"Oh, I've been over with Farmer Gopher's gang," I would say.

"And why did you quit?"

"Well," I would make answer in the right tone of voice, "you know Gopher."

"Sure! what beats me is how anybody with the least bit of spunk can stay with him a single day....Come in and have dinner, and you can start this afternoon. What would you like to do?"

Whereupon I would mention some phase of harvesting which I had not yet tried. In this way I gained a wide experience—and covered a great deal of territory.

I scooped grain in a box car. I cut hands.

I drove the water wagon—for the first time in my life; that's a pretty dry job.

I took the threshed wheat to the elevator—not a very elevating job, but steady.

I stocked. I fought prairie fires. I was cook for a while giving entire satisfaction to anyone who did not have to eat my meals.

I drove the binder, and was getting on famously until I had to cut a field of wheat that was thick choked with weeds. When I went back to the house for Chains the farmer said he was tired of me, so I blew out.

The longer I stayed with the harvesting game, the more convinced I became that harvesting No. 1 Hard was no No. 1 Soft Soap. A prairie wheatfield is no place for a barefoot boy—he'll surely sink his toe on the stubble, and he has to stand a lot of chaffing when the chaff goes down his neck. The farmers don't care two straws what becomes of the straw, as long as it shows which way the wind blows, though I did hear they are working on a scheme to import Egyptians to make bricks out of it so they will have something to hurt at their political opponents next election.

During the season, nobody talks of anything but Wheat. The hands discuss the quality; the thrasher discusses the bushelage; the farmer discusses the price; the women folk compare crops. Even the little birds, as say: "T'wheat, T'wheat, T'wheat."

Everybody knows that in Canada there are more

Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules

Sold than all other Rheumatic Remedies combined for Rheumatism, Neuritis, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, etc.

As for the prairie chickens they are never so happy as when the fields are full of harvesters. And when I say prairie chickens, I mean prairie chickens, with the accent on both words.

By dint of much changing of jobs, and by insisting on having only the softest snaps, I finally managed to gain sufficient experience, and got my muscles toughened so that I really was of some value, though now that I am far away I am free to say that I would have hated to pay myself four dollars a day at any time.

The $150 I brought back with me was hard-earned money for all that. Once I slept in a wheat bin, than which there is no harder bed on earth. Ragged rocks are swartedown pillows by comparison. On another occasion I got a job with a gang of foreigners, one of whom could almost speak nearly intelligible English. I only stayed with that crowd long enough for I found in the bunk house.

"Cooties, Cooties Everywhere. And not a pinch of Keatings...."

That, I may add, was one of the few jobs I left of my own free will. I stood not on the order of my going but bolted breakfast and bolted away. Then I scratched around for less irritating work.

On most of the farms on which I worked they were using horses. The farmers, many of them, had tractors, but these were sheltered in the imminent shed. I gathered that, like Henry's Bird, they were being carefully kept out of the draft.

All is not work during the harvesting. Sometimes Sunday is observed, and sometimes it rains. Providence has not yet seen fit to merge these two reasons for halting operations, but no doubt that will come, when Fred Hatfield gets a little more experience.

When work is impossible, the harvesters enjoy themselves: sometimes by fighting, sometimes by imprudent entertainments. I remember one sing-song in a barn that was highly successful. It was on a Sunday (the farmer called it the Sabbath) and so we sang sacred and secular pieces, the farmer's daughter accompanying on a fiddle such appropriate offerings as "What will the Harvest Be?", "Bringing in the Sheaves!", "Even as the Golden Grain!", and so on.

I finally suggested "Rosalie, the Prairie Flower."

"Well," said the boss, musingly, "I know the Lake of the Woods, and Robin Hood, but I never heard of no flour called 'Rosalie'."

For the rest of the evening I sat my light under a bushel—Toronto Saturday Night.
